

EUGENE J. McCARTHY

At his New Hampshire campaign headquarters after primary returns gave him 42% of the vote.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW — AP Newsfeatures

Senator Eugene Joseph McCarthy's showing in the first 1968 presidential primary startled members of both political parties and showed strong support from young Americans reacting to the situation in Vietnam.

The soft-spoken senior senator from Minnesota, who was born in Watkins 52 years ago on March 29, 1916, received his BA at St. John's University in Collegeville and became a social science high school teacher for five years.

Receiving his MA at the University of Minnesota, he returned to St. John's to become a professor of economics and education for two years.

He married former high school teacher Abigail Quigley in 1945. One year later, he assumed the position of acting chairman, St. Thomas College Sociology Dept., St. Paul, where he also served as departmental instructor for three years.

In 1948, McCarthy ran for, and won, a seat in the 4th

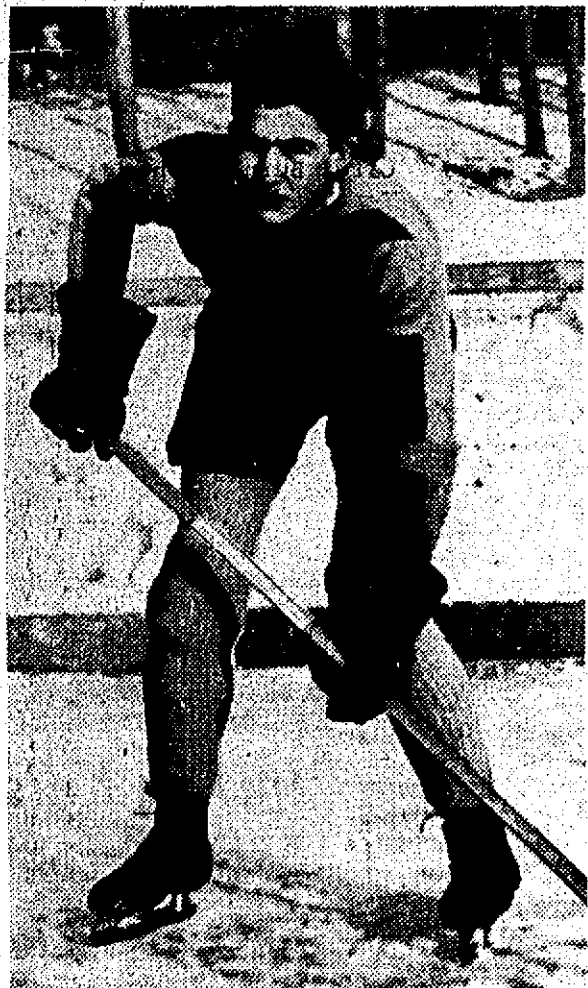

Congressional District of Minnesota, where he remained for ten years.

He defeated a two-term incumbent in 1958 to win his current seat in the United States Senate.

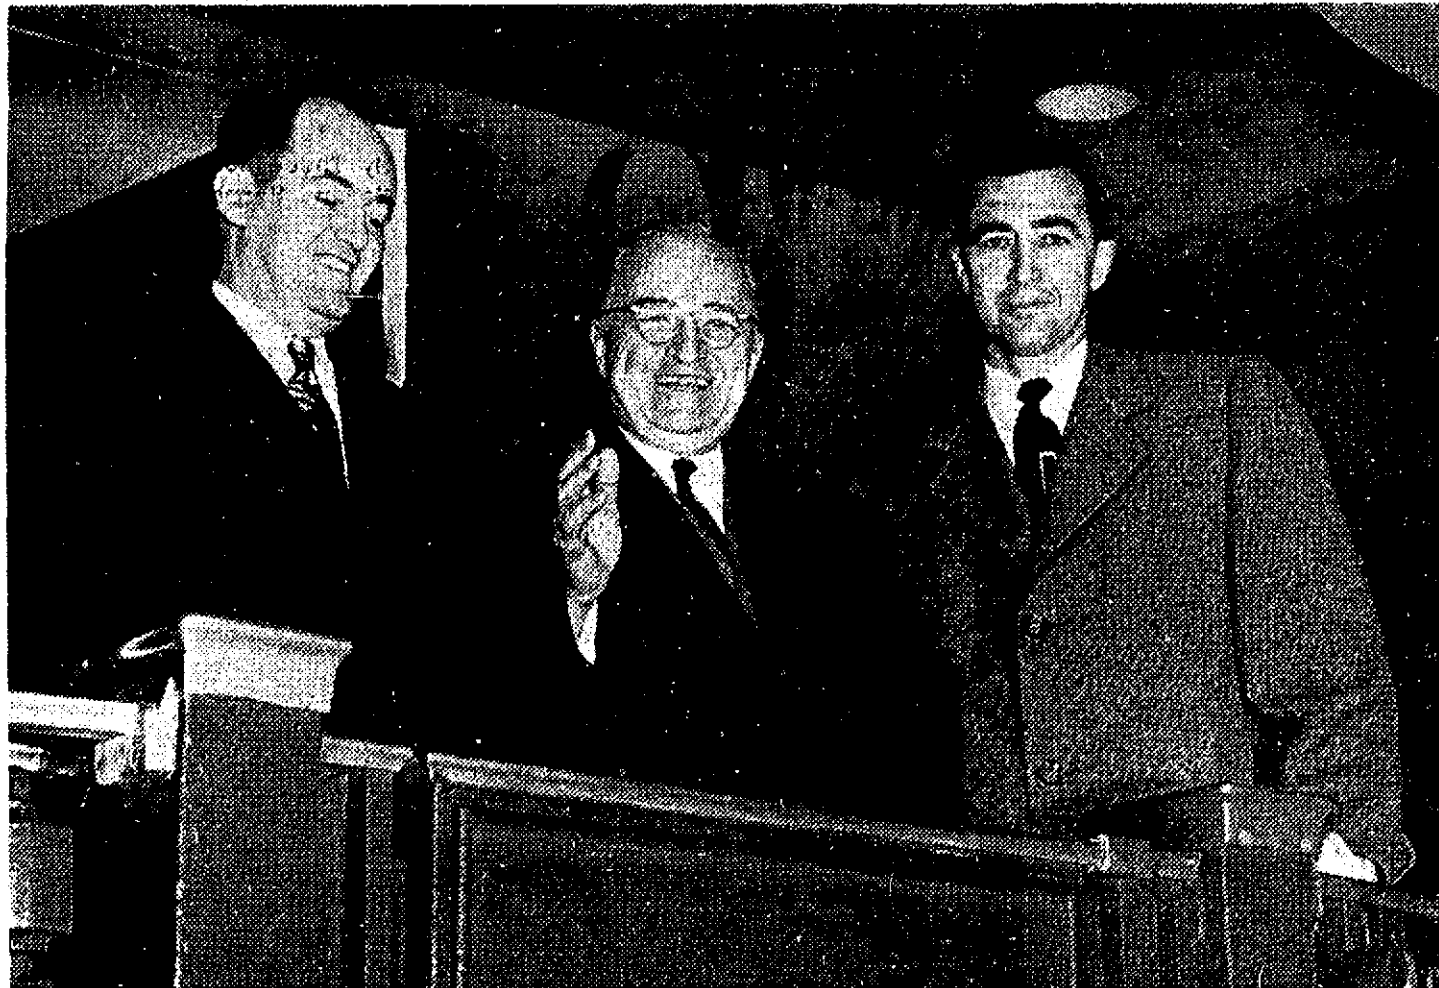

At the Democratic convention in 1960, where fellow Catholic and Senator John F. Kennedy was nominated, McCarthy gave an impassioned speech for Adlai Stevenson. Four years later, having supported the Kennedy-Johnson programs, he watched fellow Minnesotan Hubert H. Humphrey selected as vice-presidential nominee.

In January, 1966, he joined 16 Senate Democrats in advocating a prolonging of the bombing lull in Vietnam. By August, 1967, his dissent had escalated in proportion to the war's escalation.

Now, as an alternative to present administration policies, Senator Eugene McCarthy is offering a challenge, within his own party, to an incumbent President.

Parents Called About Girl Who Lived With Boy

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of Barnard College has asked the parents of Linda LeClair, who broke college rules to live off campus with her boyfriend, whether they consider their daughter "an emancipated minor legally or in fact."

In a letter to the 20-year-old sophomore, Martha Peterson,

BRIGHT AND BEAUTIFUL Evelyn Jacoby, 20, of Bremen, Germany, ponders a question during contest she won to be proclaimed "the most intelligent German woman." Miss Jacoby won over several thousand entrants in the contest, which was sponsored by a woman's magazine.

the president, also asked that Linda's parents state "their position in the position in the responsibilities they carry for you and what they expect of the college."

Linda, who received the letter Thursday, said, "I didn't expect her to come up with all these questions. I didn't think that she would have such petty questions. I interpreted the tone of the letter as mildly hostile."

She said she has not attended classes for three weeks because of the controversy since the discovery that she and Peter Behr, 20, were living together in a $100-a-month apartment.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Discoveries in the Weight Field: Obese persons who reduce have the same number of fat cells in their bodies as when they were overweight. "Reducing" means shrinking the cells in size. The number of fat cells in the body seems to be determined by early eating habits. Calorie intake in later years expands or contracts the cells and controls weight directions. Another new discovery is that certain individuals who can only lose weight on a strict crash diet and regain it with a normal diet cannot help it. Because either through early unbalanced eating or a mistake of nature, certain amino acids and proteins are not doing their job on certain kinds of foods. In other words, the body has lost its ability to handle certain food types as fats or proteins, etc. Thus the food goes to fat, not fuel. A properly balanced diet and/or temporary medication often restores the ability of the body to deal with these food types.

their job on certain kinds of foods. In other words, the body has lost its ability to handle certain food types as fats or proteins, etc. Thus the food goes to fat, not fuel. A properly balanced diet and/or temporary medication often restores the ability of the body to deal with these food types.

"BOOTS" SCUFFLE: Nancy Sinatra sues Goodyear Tire and Rubber for use of her "style" by Sue Rainey. Everyone including Nancy should thank, not sue, Goodyear. The commercial is great. The singing is great, too. So, Nancy, please don't sue Sue, too. Meanwhile, "Teen's Director of Beauty and Fashion Service" is able Sandee Boots (her real name, honest!). Sandee is considering action against both Nancy and Goodyear. The case: "Kicking around the name of Boots."

DOPE-Y DOGS: Specially trained dogs being used to track down marijuana. "Fetch" means uncover the pot. Animals can follow scent to hiding places and to pinches of grass hidden in such difficult places as closed coffee cans. Man's best friend is becoming enemy No. 1 of pushers in teen-land.

Guru Not So New-Ru: Yoga and Hindu kick not original with young Hollywood set—during Roaring '20s the silent screen set did the whole bit. Even the Beatniks of the '50s (most of whom are very straight these days) had their thing—Zen Buddhism.

GUITARS ALL STRUNG OUT: Sales of rock 'n' roll instruments slid eight to 20 per cent last year! That includes drums, amps and guitars. Could it be a dangerous satch point in teen interest? Is rock music slipping as well? Or are teens discouraged from organizing groups by the jillions that now just exist... or try to exist?

HELPFUL HIPPIES: In Los Angeles teen runaways turned hippy don't need clothes or money of their own. A sort of community clothes pool exists, and a teen can always dip into it. Where to crash? Easy—someone or a few someones are bound to have rented one of the largest old frame houses that dot the Hollywood/Sunset Strip area. Food is come by the same way—a flush group shares what it has.

Records Go to Pot: Five-fingered discounting a growing problem for growing drug chains and discount houses. Pop records a big target. Reason: Easily "fenced," used as barter goods with pushers of marijuana. One California drug chain, alarmed by escalation of problem, moved in with special police assistance (including dogs). Busted four teens (two boys and two girls). The cache found in cellar of ring-leader: over 200 albums.

GOODIE GOUGE: Kids protest against rising cost of movies and concession goods—their solution? Rent their own—bringing their own munchables. High on the list—lollipops.

RAIL, RAIL, IBM: After computer dating, then what? Computer schooling, that's what. New company matches teens with colleges for a nominal fee. Could be big, big, big. It can probably help narrow down choice of schools for undecided high school seniors.

Britain's famed Dame Edith Evans, TV's great Dick Van Dyke and newcomer Barbara Feldon lead the merry madcapers in the Mirisch production "Fitzwilly" in color by DeLuxe and Panavision, released by United Artists, a Transmucra Company. Directed by Delbert Mann.

SAT. - SUN. AT DIXIE

Robert Vaughn confronts Felicia Farr, who knows more about a murder than she will reveal, in this scene from "The Venetian Affair." The MGM suspense-chiller, based on Helen MacInnes' best-selling novel, also stars Elke Sommer, Karl Boehm, Boris Karloff, Roger C. Carmel and Luciana Paluzzi. It was filmed in Panavision and color on a variety of locations in Venice.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH Temporary Dental Work Saves Loss of Work Time

Mr. Gard complained: My front tooth is loose and sore to touch. When I press the gum over the root it hurts. I have a bad taste in my mouth and it seems to come from that tooth.

Exam: Upper right front incisor tooth was indeed mobile and tender to percussion. It was slightly elongated and surrounding gum tissue was inflamed, swollen and exuded pus on pressure. There were deep pockets between gum and tooth indicating much bone loss.

X-ray exam: Tooth previously had root canal therapy. There was marked bone loss, specially between the two incisors. At the root end there was a large abscess which communicated with the periodontal (pyorrhea) pocket.

Diagnosis: Periodontal abscess.

Treatment: There was so much bone loss and such a large infected area that the tooth had to be extracted. For cosmetic reasons a replacement was made at once. The infected root was cut from the crown which was then hollowed out, filled with white plastic material and attached to a plastic base adjusted to fit against the palatal area just behind the space where the tooth was extracted.

In about a week or two when the gum heals, the missing tooth will be replaced with a permanent, fixed bridge which will be attached to teeth on either side of the space.

The base of the bridge will be made of gold with porcelain baked onto the surfaces that show. The porcelain will be tinted, stained and shaped to resemble natural teeth.

During the time Mr. Gard's bridge is in the making, his tooth will be protected with a temporary fixed bridge made of plastic which will also be contoured and colored to resemble natural teeth. This will be held in place with temporary cement so that it can be easily removed when the permanent bridge is ready for cementation.

Mr. Gard's dentist reports that his patient won't have

Mr. Gard complained: My front tooth is loose and sore to touch. When I press the gum over the root it hurts. I have a bad taste in my mouth and it seems to come from that tooth.

Exam: Upper right front incisor tooth was indeed mobile and tender to percussion. It was slightly elongated and surrounding gum tissue was inflamed, swollen and exuded pus on pressure. There were deep pockets between gum and tooth indicating much bone loss.

X-ray exam: Tooth previously had root canal therapy. There was marked bone loss, especially between the two incisors. At the root end there was a large abscess which communicated with the periodontal (pyorrhea) pocket.

Diagnosis: Periodontal abscess.

Treatment: There was so much bone loss and such a large infected area that the tooth had to be extracted. For cosmetic reasons a replacement was made at once. The infected root was cut from the crown which was then hollowed out, filled with white plastic material and attached to a plastic base adjusted to fit against the palatal area just behind the space where the tooth was extracted.

In about a week or two when the gum heals, the missing tooth will be replaced with a permanent, fixed bridge which will be attached to teeth on either side of the space.

The base of the bridge will be made of gold with porcelain baked onto the surfaces that show. The porcelain will be tinted, stained and shaped to resemble natural teeth.

During the time Mr. Gard's bridge is in the making, his teeth will be protected with a temporary fixed bridge made of plastic which will also be contoured and colored to resemble natural teeth. This will be held in place with temporary cement so that it can be easily removed when the permanent bridge is ready for cementation.

Boston Wins Pro Playoff Over 76ers

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Boston Celtics' achievements take up plenty of space in the National Basketball Association record books. And just when it looked as if the Philadelphia 76ers were about to start a dynasty of their own the odds boys came up with another piece of history.

The aging Celtics edged the 76ers 100-96 Friday night in the seventh and final game of their Eastern Division championship playoffs, becoming the first team in NBA history to win a seven-game series after trailing 3-1.

As amazing as the Celtics' comeback was the Wilt Chamberlain puzzle. The greatest offensive player the game has ever known took one shot and scored only two points in the second half. He wound up with 14 points.

Rockefeller, Humphrey Are Prodded

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey among the Democrats and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York among the Republicans are being prodded to join the run for the White House.

Humphrey has made clear he's ready to run apparently it's just a matter of timing the announcement—while Rockefeller has been less clear on whether he will actually campaign against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the nomination, Rockefeller has left himself open to a draft.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, fighting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination, said in Bloomington, Ind., Humphrey should announce now if he plans to campaign in support of U.S. policy in Vietnam—a policy McCarthy opposes.

Humphrey addressed a group at the State Department Thursday, on a nonpolitical matter, saying with a smile he had wanted "an audience this large" to make a certain announcement.

"I'd do it right here," Humphrey said—but he didn't.

Across town, formation of United Democrats for Humphrey was announced, with former President Harry S. Truman as honorary chairman and Sens. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma as national chairmen.

Michigan Gov. George Romney met with top Rockefeller strategists in Washington and said that while he is not committed to supporting Rockefeller, "I would not have been here if I had not been interested in what they had to say."

One source said after the meeting that the consensus was Rockefeller "has got to come out fairly soon and make a fairly simple statement of candidacy to the end."

Rockefeller did not attend the meeting. But he was in town, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors on urban problems—the first of several major speeches he plans to make around the country.

Kennedy campaigned in California, meeting thousands of Mexican-American migrant farmers in the Fresno area. He also planned visits in Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego in preparation for the June 4 primary fight against McCarthy. Polls show Kennedy ahead.

Kennedy criticized the Johnson administration for warring with Hanoi over where peace contacts should be made. He said President Johnson had made statements two years ago pledging to go anywhere, anytime in search of peace in Vietnam.

BARBS

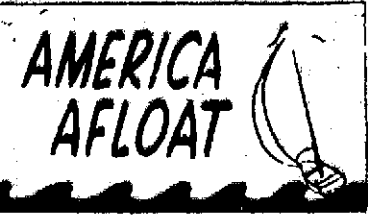

By PHIL PASTORET

Anyone who thinks meatless days are things of the past isn't buying food on a budget.

Solved: the small-change shortage. The fellow in front of us at the teller's window counted it out, penny-by-penny, while we waited and waited.

Political weather for the next few months: windy.

The difference between a good beer and a poor drinker is that the former keeps its head.

By WM. T. McKEOWN
NEA Boating Editor

"What's the most popular boatbuilding material?" Dave Smith asked. Your guess is probably wrong, too.

"Which material makes the easiest boat to carry?" We'd both be right this time with aluminum.

It is also the most popular. More boats were built of the light metal last year than all other types combined, according to Smith, who's paid to keep track of such things. Weekends he's a pleasure boatman on Lake Erie and inland waters around Cleveland. Weekdays he is head of the Aluminum Association's Marine Committee.

So how about fiberglass? More different kinds of boats are made of plastic, Smith said. 170,000 of them last year. But there were 260,000 turned out in aluminum, plus 20,000 in wood and 5,000 of steel.

At the recent National Boat Show in New York City, 75 per cent of the boats displayed were fiberglass or plastic. 8.7 per cent were aluminum. 8.6 per cent of canvas and rubber, and only 7 per cent of wood. But across the country, said Smith, when you look at the fishing boats and canoes, you start to see where all the aluminum production went. Runabouts of the metal, as well as john boats, carpoppers, small cruisers, pontoon boats and houseboats, are also joining the fleet.

Aluminum got a bad name with boatmen after World War II and only recently has lived it down. Some postwar operators bought up a lot of surplus aircraft aluminum and made it into boats. These new craft had a strange reaction to brackish water—they seemed to practically dissolve after a few months afloat. The word got around fast—sailors who have to swim home tend to talk—and the builders either switched to corrosion-resistant marine aluminum alloy or got chased out of the business. Many boats now carry an approved sticker from the Aluminum Association. Maintenance usually amounts to little more than hosing a boat down after use.

There are fewer aluminum boat manufacturers, Smith said, because you can't set yourself up to whack them in your back yard like you can with other craft. But the fewer builders are engineered to make more boats.

Yet single-copy custom craft are designed for the metal as well, Smith brags. Two of last year's hottest offshore power racers, Mona Lou II and III, were "tin" types. Both were built by Alliance, Ohio, sportsman driver Merrick Lewis who formed Maritime Products in his home town to turn out big aluminum craft. Both were driven by Odell Lewis of the Kiekhafer Mercury racing team from Wisconsin. Mona Lou II, with turbine engines, took Long Beach-to-San Francisco and Long Beach-San Diego ocean marathons. Mona Lou III, an identical 32-footer but with MerCruiser outdrives for power, finished first in the Bahamas 500-Miler.

Goalby Temper 'Fugited'

In all the excitement of Roberto de Vicenzo losing the Masters by the numbers, the magnitude of Bob Goalby's achievement in winning it has been glossed over. Here's a 37-year-old guy who has won only one PGA tournament since 1962 and played so poorly this spring that he wasn't even listed among the top 100 money winners on the tour.

He's a guy who has always resented the references to him as a former quarterback at Illinois because, although he went there on a football scholarship, he was a poop-out as a signal caller and finally transferred to Southern Illinois, where he played the outfield on the baseball team. He doesn't like to be reminded of his athletic failures.

But he is an intensely aggressive competitor, and once illustrated the point to Jim Gaquin, the former PGA field secretary, by noting that during his high school basketball days in Belleville, Ill., he fouled out of 11 straight games. Like a lot of high-strung athletes, he had a tendency to be edgy in his public relations, sometimes tactlessly blunt.

But he got a grip on himself two years ago after playing a round with the late Tony Lema at the PGA in Akron. It was the day before Lema was killed tragically in a plane crash.

Tony had been noted as a temper terror, too. Playing with Goalby in next to his last round of golfing competition, Lema backed out a 7 on the ninth hole, yet recovered to hole two quick birdies in a row. Bob marveled at the recovery. "You'd be amazed," said Tony, "at what I've found I can do on a golf course since I learned to control my temper."

Bob always had the mechanical equipment. Three months after he started the pro golf tour, in 1958, he won his first tournament at Greensboro, N.C. To achieve that breakthrough, he had to make up a deficit of four strokes in the last round. The leader was Sam Snead, then in his golfing prime. Goalby shot a 66—identical to his closing score in the Masters triumph.

The native of Belleville, Ill., is a strong-jawed 195-pounder who looks the part of a championship athlete (not all golfers do). His dad was a truck driver for 35 years. Ironically, it's with the driver that Goalby has his most trouble on the course. He has a tendency to duck hook his tee shots, and on the last two holes of the Masters he changed from a driver to a 3-wood. He's so strong with all his clubs that he only uses a three-quarter swing.

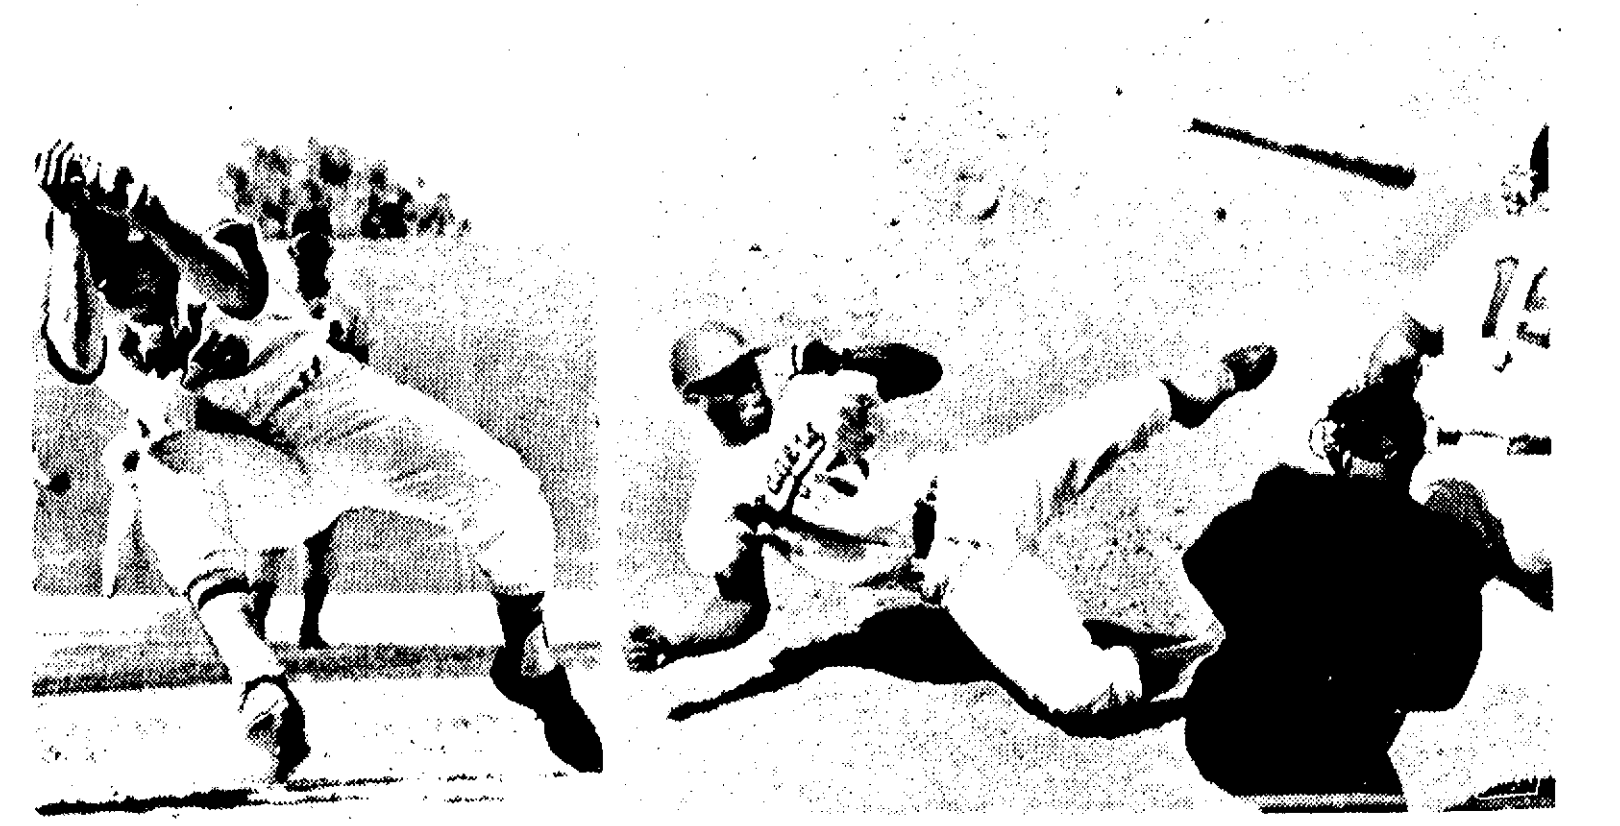

Bob still makes his home 50 yards from the same golf course in Belleville where he was born and grew up and used to caddle, sneaking in an occasional round of golf when no one was looking. "The only difference," he notes, "is that I can now play the course without them running me off."

Roberto de Vicenzo, the gentle man from Argentina whose scorecard golf benefited Goalby, got a wire from his wife the morning of the last round. She had stayed in Argentina because she doesn't speak English, and Roberto doesn't feel he speaks enough for the two of them. He translated her wire: "Happy birthday. Hope everybody else happy. We love you." "What does she mean," smiled Roberto, "by 'we'?"

Between you'n' me, almost against its will, the staid old Masters manages to get embroiled in controversy. It couldn't help the De Vicenzo-Goalby brouhaha, but a sideplay to the recent tournament was the failure of Jimmy Demaret, a longtime favorite at Augusta, to make the scene. Jimmy, a three-time winner of the event, was lacerated by the cavalier disdain of Cliff Roberts & Company after Jimmy voiced some constructive criticism of the tournament. And some of Demaret's friends expect him to shun the tourney henceforth.

a 'Piece of the Action'

By IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Last summer, a black shoeshine boy, in his early teens, was buffing the shoes of a white man in Chicago's Loop, not far from where the recent fires and killings and looting took place.

The white man asked the boy who his favorite baseball players were. "Ernie Banks," said the boy, above the rhythmic slap of the shoeshine rag. "Willie Mays, too. Yeah, I dig Willie Mays a whole lot. I wanna be a ballplayer too. Like him."

The white man asked if he would like to be a ballplayer like Jackie Robinson, too.

"Who?" asked the kid, looking up.

"Never heard of him," replied the bootblack, applying more polish.

And boys the age of the bootblack have thwarted dreams and frustrated ambitions and bursting bitterness toward American society. They have very little knowledge of the history and achievements of the black man in this country. They were responsible for the bulk of the multimillion-dollar damage—resulting in the loss of lives and property—that ravaged the ghettos of Washington, D.C., Chicago, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Memphis. It was also boys of the age of that bootblack who were responsible for the relative calm in Harlem, Watts, Philadelphia, Detroit.

"There is no question about it," said Jackie Robinson. "The kids were responsible for the riots and for the calm. The ones who rioted were releasing their frustrations and bitterness on a world that has ignored them. It was an expression of their desire to get a piece of the action of the affluent society around them."

"Those who did not riot showed respect for the mem-

East was mighty proud of himself as he entered 200 points on his side of the ledger. He had won the first club and led a second club for South to ruff.

South had led a diamond to dummy's king and played the five of hearts. East had gone up with the ace and forced South with another club. South entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and led a heart to his king. This play was made to guard against the unlikely chance that East had started with the singleton ace of hearts.

This was unlikely because West's two no-trump call had been the unusual no-trump to ask for minor suits and he would not have made that bid with four hearts in his hand.

Anyway, South did lead hearts and rose with his king. That gave him five tricks in, and he still made three more trumps to go down one. As we said before, East was country to understand the frustrations of these kids. "And no amount of talking and promising is going to change their attitude. There has to be action. No one single person could have prevented those riots, not me, not Willie Mays, not Mayor Lindsay of New York, not President Johnson. Not even Martin Luther King. Dr. King's death was not the reason for the outbreaks; it was just an agent."

Is there any way that black athletes can help? "Black athletes can show their concern for other members of their race," said Robinson. "That's about all. Many don't do very much, like some of the San Francisco Giants, Mays and Jim Hart and Willie McCovey. Of course, some other athletes do. Bill White of the Phillies, Phil Russell of the Celtics and Arthur Ashe, the tennis player, have shown great concern. But some don't involve themselves enough. I know I didn't when I was a player. That was wrong."

"I have been out of baseball for 12 years. And the kids look at me like I'm just an old-timer. The guys playing today, though, carry prestige. They can be very significant in explaining the problems and encouraging the kids. When kids see the stands athletes like Tommie Smith and Lew Alcindor and Muhammad Ali take, this is important to them. These athletes are really projecting themselves."

"This doesn't mean that athletes can be great race leaders. They can't because they don't have the following. You know, Negro kids don't look at Negro athletes with the awe that white kids—and white adults—look at athletes."

"The Negro kid admires the black athlete, but he doesn't honor him in the way whites do. Blacks have more important problems than seeking autographs. This is something white people don't seem to understand. For example, black kids are proud of Ali and admire his skills as probably the greatest fighter of all time, but that does not mean they agree with or want to follow his racial views."

The black kids in the ghetto, the age of that Chicago shoeshine boy, march to the tune of their own drummer.

Happiness Is A $249,000 Study

In Puerto Rico the Public Health Service conducted a survey on happiness. It was part of a $249,000 study of conditions there. After surveys with 1,500 Puerto Ricans, the survey disclosed:

- People who think positively are happier than those who think negatively.
 - People who make money are happier than people who make less.
 - Young people are happier than old people.
 - People who are healthy are happier than people who are sick.
- Congressman Robert H. Michel (R-Ill.) is unhappy about the happiness survey and suggests the Public Health Service could have saved time and tax money by recalling an old saying: "It's better to be rich, young healthy than poor, old and sick."

Says Humphrey Will Win the Nomination

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee for president in 1964, assessed several presidential candidates here Thursday night and said he thought Vice President Hubert Humphrey would be the Democratic nominee this fall.

Goldwater said he did not see how Humphrey could avoid running for the nomination.

Humphrey, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York are considered the top three Democratic candidates.

Goldwater said McCarthy was very dedicated and "showed great" courage in putting his neck on the line. McCarthy has been critical of President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

Goldwater said Kennedy was "inexperienced in everything he had undertaken."

The Arizona senator said he would back former Vice President Richard M. Nixon because of a previous promise. He also said any impasse at the Republican national convention would benefit California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Goldwater said it was difficult to determine the strength of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace but said he felt Wallace's candidacy would hurt the GOP.

Goldwater said he believes Johnson's policy in Vietnam is a good one and added that Americans should support their President in time of war.

"I look to history and realize that being the leader of the world has meant a willingness to use power wisely," Goldwater said. "I believe we are winning the war. It could be over this November."

Rules Against Party Host, a Bengal Tiger

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Tammy is a 110-pound Bengal tiger and a gentle host at children's pajama parties.

But the Dade County sheriff's office says William Seefeldt, the owner, will have to cage his 10-month-old pet. The cage is necessary to qualify for the permit to keep her.

"She is house broken with seven generations of captivity behind her," Seefeldt said Thursday. "If they put her in a cage away from people she would go wild."

Tammy was born in a litter of five tiny tigers at the county's Crandon Park Zoo. The zoo traded the excess cubs to an animal dealer and Seefeldt bought Tammy from the dealer. He didn't reveal the price but Dr. Gordon Hibbell, superintendent of the zoo, said tiger prices range from about $800 to $1,200.

Seefeldt said he bought Tammy as a follow-up to other unusual pets—a bear, falcon, fox and skunk.

Seefeldt has had Tammy six months and she's a plaything for the neighborhood children. This week 25 of them held a pajama party with Tammy as a guest of honor. She even visited Hialeah High School.

"The adult neighbors are afraid," said Hibbell.

Thursday, the sheriff's deputies pointed to the statute requiring permits for carnivorous animals including tigers. They said Seefeldt would get the permit when Tammy got a cage.

Seefeldt said he would take his case to court.

Free Medical Treatment

SEATTLE (AP) - Free medical treatment will be provided for war-injured South Vietnamese children under a project announced Wednesday by a group of Seattle physicians called the Doctors' Committee.

Plans are to bring four to six children here initially, and more as space and funds allow. The doctors hope to bring them on returning military flights.

Group First to Reach Pole Since Peary

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Weather Bureau said today a six-man American-Canadian expedition became early this morning the first party to reach the North Pole by surface travel since the 1909 Peary expedition.

A bureau spokesman said the news came from the agency's Arctic weather station at Ellesmere Island in Canada's northwest territories which has been keeping radio tabs on the adventurers.

The expedition, headed by Ralph Plaisted, a St. Paul, Minn., insurance man, made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the pole last year, turning back 530 miles short of the goal because of rapidly melting ice and other factors.

The explorer team has received this message from the Ellesmere Island station at Eureka, which is jointly operated by the United States and Canada.

"U.S. Air Force fly-over verified at 0635 Zulu (1:35 a.m. EST) that Plaisted expedition had attained North Pole."

Phone Folks Willing to Negotiate

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Telephone company and union officials have expressed hope they can get wage negotiations going again as a nationwide strike of nearly 200,000 AFL-CIO Communications Workers enters its third day.

"We are ready to meet with them," Ben S. Gilmer, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., said Friday.

"We are hopeful the parties can get back together," said a spokesman for union President Joseph A. Beirne.

Most telephone service was little affected by the first nationwide strike in 21 years.

Picketing in about 40 states was reported generally good-natured and peaceful, but the company reported scattered cable-cutting incidents in Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey and Florida.

"Vandalism of telephone plant (equipment) has not been widespread and where it has occurred, repairs have been made promptly," Gilmer said in a statement in New York.

"We know our people are not doing this," Beirne said of the reported sabotage.

Thinks Live Coverage Inaccurate

WASHINGTON (AP) - A television news executive says he believes live coverage of racial disorders gives viewers an inaccurate picture—but that television is accused of withholding news if it doesn't provide on-the-scene coverage.

Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, also told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that the arrival of TV equipment on the scene of a demonstration can set off crowd action that had not occurred before.

"We've been agonizing over that," Salant said. "My orders to cameramen in such cases are: Cap your cameras and get the hell out of there."

"Those are our orders, but they cannot be enforced from a head office. The decisions are up to the men working on the story, and no newsman wants to quit on a story while it is happening."

The discussion of TV coverage—which along with newspaper coverage was subjected to some criticism in the recent report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders—came at Thursday's sessions of some 550 members of the society.

They prepared to close the three-day convention today with an address by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the installation of a new president of their own, Vincent S. Jones, a deputy editor of the Gambett Newspapers, Rochester, N.Y.

The election of Jones is a formality since the society by tradition always elevates its first vice president to the presidency. Jones will succeed Michael J. Ogden of the Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin.

U.S. Willing to Talk on Hanoi Sites

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Johnson administration policymakers say the United States, which already has proposed 15 sites for initial contacts with North Vietnam—will consider any new sites Hanoi suggests.

The statement by U.S. authorities, who declined to be identified, came after the United States announced it has notified North Vietnam that Warsaw is not acceptable for initial talks because Poland has given military assistance to Hanoi.

The U.S. position was outlined in response to a statement by the North Vietnam foreign ministry, broadcast by Hanoi radio, that accused the United States of delaying talks between the two sides and asked for formal answer to Hanoi's choice of Warsaw.

The Hanoi statement drew a stiff rejoinder from Washington that communications between the two countries should be through private and official communication channels and not through newspaper headlines.

Some American authorities said privately that North Vietnam's insistence on Warsaw was the result of fear of Communist China's anger over the possibility of negotiations with the Americans. U.S. and Red Chinese envoys have met privately in Warsaw for 10 years on an irregular basis, without solving any outstanding differences between the two countries.

State Department officials cited specific incidents of Polish support for North Vietnam which they claimed would rule out the Polish capital as an impartial location for talks.

In the U.S. view it would be just as reasonable to propose one of the active allied war capitals as a peace site.

Charges Cox Application Incorrect

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The state Merit System Council was told Thursday that William Floyd Cox had intentionally filled out his application incorrectly in 1959 to make himself eligible for a job with the state Welfare Department.

The Welfare Department said Cox was notified that he did not have the minimum education and experience to qualify for a caseworker's position. The department said Cox then filled out an application showing he had taught school a year in Perry County.

Glenn F. Walther, Cox's attorney, said records would show that Cox had never taught school. He said the Welfare Department did not have to produce records to that effect.

Cox was dismissed as chief of the Welfare Department's Nursing Home Division Feb. 29 by state Welfare Commissioner Len E. Blaylock. Blaylock based his dismissal on Cox's alleged bias toward some nursing home operators and the falsification of records.

Cox appealed his dismissal to the Merit System Council. Walther said he would not call any witnesses.

Cox was promoted to chief of the Nursing Home Division in 1962.

Walther said that Cox was eligible for the job since he had accumulated two years of experience in the department.

Fred Henne, director of administrative services, said that the standards for the top job in the division were drawn up with Cox's promotion in mind.

WR Pays Top Price for Bull

History of Theaters in Hope, From Silent Days to Present Time

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Our community has never had a Palace, but there was an Alice Theatre, that is.

The recent Academy Awards caused a little delving into the history of motion picture theatres here in Hope with special attention for the era of the Silent Screen. The first of the theatres in Hope was the Airdome, located on Front Street in the approximate location of what is Jack's News Stand today. As the name implies, there was no roof. Since patrons didn't go in automobiles then, (the early 1900's) it was quite possible to have a movie "rained out."

When the Lyric Theatre was opened on 2nd Street where Lewis-McLarty is today, it was just prior to 1920 and the theatre not only had a roof but also a piano. That was the time of live accompaniment for the action on the screen, and there remains today a fascination for this art and admiration for those who exercised it.

The pianist watched the picture and played appropriate music to fit the action. There was no suggested list of melodies to be used, so the pianist had to have a variety of selections at her fingertips (literally). They ranged from the classical (where would the Lone Ranger have gotten without the William Tell Overture?) to the popular (example: "Melody of Love").

The late E. J. McCabe was the manager of the Lyric, and the talented pianists included Johnie McMath (Mrs. E. J. McCabe), Kate Scott Wingfield (Mrs. R. L. Gosnell), and Mamie Coulter (deceased). When the reels were changed, there was a pause and it was then that the movie goers were entertained with vocal selections by Lois McMath (Mrs. John Greene of Little Rock). "Talkies" came in the mid-20's and the Grand Theatre showed them on Main Street where Western Auto is today. F. S. Horton (deceased), Franklin Horton's father, was the manager of the Grand, where such stars as Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford won the hearts of the viewers. This was the location in the '40's of the Rialto Theatre, but it was smaller than the Grand.

What about the Alice Theatre? It was the first movie house at the present Saenger Theatre location. C. H. Crutchfield (deceased) built the Alice and named it for his daughter. Even though there was sound on the screen in the mid-20's, the Alice Theatre had an organ, a $25,000 Robert Morton Organ. It was played before the movies were shown and was a real "up-town" addition to the local theatre, which burned in the late '20's. The local Presbyterian Church bought this instrument "for a song" (excuse the pun), and it is still in use.

One other site of movie houses here has been South Elm Street where Davis Furniture Company is now. At one time the Queen Theatre was located there, and

Tiger Refuses to Leave a Dried-up Moat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - For almost two weeks Tasha, a Siberian tiger, has refused to leave the dried-up moat around the Philadelphia Zoo's lion house, and come back to her cage.

On Thursday, zoo officials took firm action to get the big cat back home. Tasha took equally firm action—she wouldn't go.

On April 6 the tiger wandered into the moat and stayed there, refusing to eat or enter a baited cage dropped down to her. She began appearing languid.

They fired two tranquilizers into the big cat then went down to prod her into the cage. Tasha wouldn't budge.

They finally got her into the loop of a lasso and five other assistants lent a hand. Tasha only growled and purred ferociously.

Finally Ulmer saw Tasha was breathing heavily and feared she may have suffered a heart attack and called the exercise off for the time being.

during the '40's it was the New Theatre.

J. P. Brundidge built the first Saenger, which was destroyed by fire on an Easter morning in the mid-'40's. The current theatre is built at the same location. The Henry Seamans family moved here in 1955, and he managed the Saenger until his death. Mrs. Seamans has carried on in the capacity of manager.

"Show time" has varied through the years in Hope. As was mentioned earlier, the weather had a great deal to do with movies shown at the Airdome. Blue Laws affected their showing in the '30's with only two shows permitted on Sunday, at 2 p.m. and 9 p.m., so there was no conflict with church services. There were no time barriers by the time of World War II, so movies were shown day and night 7 days a week.

People change and so do their entertainment requirements. Today, the local movie audience is younger and almost exclusively an evening audience. Hence, matinees are rarely seen here. But the movie industry still fills the bill every night. A trip to the Saenger will show you what we mean.

This Old Man Not Likely to Be Crying

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

"As the saying goes," the old man liked to say, "there's no use in crying over your hair if you've lost your head."

The old man lost his political head a few years back. This week, on his 74th birthday, he was unlikely to be crying at all. He may have had a good sardonic laugh.

Nikita S. Khrushchev, living out his waning years in obscurity, knows how to read between the lines of Pravda and Izvestia.

What he reads can give him a good helping of grim satisfaction. The men who dumped him unceremoniously from his pinnacle 4½ years ago are up to their necks in problems. Their words and deeds indicate a bad case of Kremlin jitters.

They called Khrushchev a "hare-brained schemer" for the way he tried to attack those same problems. Now they are trying to do pretty much the same thing as Khrushchev did, and their success is far from spectacular.

The Soviet Communist party is getting sadder more frequently and with more impunity than ever was the case when Khrushchev was party boss and premier.

The Kremlin is trying even harder than Khrushchev did to bring about a world Communist meeting to unify a movement which resists unification.

Communists Romania's leaders have defied the Soviet hierarchy. Czechoslovakia is in ferment from a wave of reform sentiment which the Soviet leaders evidently regard as dangerously contagious. Reform elements moving into control openly accuse the Soviet Union of Stalin's day of having engineered political murders in Czechoslovakia. Some in high places in Moscow today were part of that Stalin apparatus.

Soviet leaders have inspired an intensive campaign against capitalist influence. The Communist party is being told it is the target of a "secret war" waged by the United States to undermine Communist systems.

While Khrushchev was in the saddle, Czechoslovakia still was safely in the hands of an orthodox regime. Romania was only beginning to emerge in the role of annoying neighbor. Red China was boisterously offensive to him, but today the Red Chinese are even more offensive and insulting to the current regime.

There is division in the Communist world over policy toward the Vietnam war, and there is a rising tide of pro-Chinese sentiment among younger extreme leftists in the world.

Alone with his thoughts last Wednesday on his 74th birthday, Khrushchev may have had reason to reflect that loss of power had its compensations.

Tornado at Greenwood Claims 13

GREENWOOD, Ark. (AP) -

A killer tornado erupted from a spring storm Friday and slashed through the business district of this western Arkansas town, causing death, scores of injuries and heavy property damage.

Thirteen persons were killed and more than 70 were hospitalized, State Police Capt. Damon Wilson said. Approximately 200 more were given emergency treatment at a first aid station in a library, another state police man said.

A search of the rubble resumed at dawn and workers feared that more dead and injured would be found.

The area was guarded through the night by about 30 Marine reservists from Texas, shifted from weekend training at nearby Ft. Chaffee, and some Air Force reservists.

Every building in the main building area, which is built on a square, was damaged.

Ambulances from several cities in the area converged on Greenwood to carry the injured to hospitals in Fort Smith, 18 miles north.

Bill Kennedy, a Fort Smith Times Record newsman, who flew over Greenwood two hours after the storm struck, said the path of destruction was about 200 feet wide and half a mile long.

The storm burst through a residential area in southwest Greenwood before it slammed into the business district and then moved on to the northeast. Most of the dead were found in the first area hit.

Communications were knocked out and traffic jams developed on highways leading out of Greenwood, hampering rescue efforts.

The rampaging twister was spawned by a squall line that dumped rain on eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas late Friday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said tornadoes also struck near Waveland, Booneville, Dardanelle and Clarksville, all towns north and east of Greenwood, but the only deaths and injuries reported were at Greenwood.

No estimate of the property damage was available but the Weather Bureau said the twister was the most destructive Arkansas has seen since 1952 when a March storm leveled Judsonia in central Arkansas, killing 111.

Inertia Kills Assistance Pact for Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inertia apparently has killed any chance for a proposed "mutual assistance pact" which would allow states to send their National Guard units to help other states cope with riots this summer.

Some key officials say they believe the idea, advanced at a governor's conference last fall, will never get off the ground.

"The thing seems to have bombed," said one Pentagon official, who spoke of legal questions along with lack of action in state legislatures and Congress.

As things stand now, states have no legal basis for sending their National Guard troops outside their own borders. In the aftermath of the Newark and Detroit riots, the National Governors Conference last October endorsed the draft of a model "National Guard mutual assistance pact."

A Washington staff member of the National Governors Conference said the proposed pact envisioned that the governor of a state with a civil disturbance problem bigger than it could handle alone could request the governor of another state to send "aiding forces" to help out.

Assuming forces were sent, the proposed compact provided such features as insurance protection of National Guardsmen assigned to riot duty in a state other than the one in which he was enrolled.

The National Governors Conference took the position this kind of a compact would require congressional consent.
